This is to enable an informed choice of programme(s) to be made appropriate to their needs, interests and academic qualifications and potential. The main sources of information are as follows:

- College printed and/or online prospectus

The Prospectus provides detailed information on the entry requirements for our various courses. Each application is considered on its merits and in competition with others. The college selects candidates considering their personal statement alongside qualifications. While every effort is made to ensure the accuracy of the Prospectus some changes are inevitable. For up-to-date information on any course, please contact the admissions office.

STAGE 3: THE INTERVIEW PROCESS

Once the student's application has been reviewed, the student is invited to the college for the following.

- A written or digital initial assessment
- An oral interview

Each student must appear for an assessment test conducted by the college, after the submission of all relevant documents as mentioned above. The English tests and interviews are aimed to ensure that the students admitted have at least a Grade B2 Level of competency.

Irrespective of the material submitted and by taking part in the assessment test, all students are required to appear for an oral interview.

POST ADMISSION PROCEDURES

Once the applicant meets the requirements set forth by the awarding body as well as the college, they are offered a place that enables a smooth transition to become a current student. The applicant who receives an offer letter will be sent an induction invitation via email including their induction checklist and timetable.

The induction enables the student an opportunity to meet their peers, to have guided tours organised by the student representatives, and are also provided with all the relevant information, support, and guidance.

Our Induction programme includes a detailed introduction to Admin and Academic processes. The admin side covers the details about the college, facilities, transportation, and other support systems. During the academic induction, explanations are given on our academic support facilities, virtual learning, teaching and learning processes, and assignments. Students are encouraged to introduce themselves to others and a few icebreakers are organised to make them comfortable and get familiar with the academic environment. The College obtains student feedback on the Induction sessions. The feedback received from students is analysed and relevant actions for changes are initiated by the Management and shared with relevant departments. The enrolment forms, star sheets (helping both staff and students to know what parts of the induction process have been completed by each student), student files, and all relevant documents will be scrutinised further and once it is established that the file is complete by meeting all the conditions as per the offer letter, the students will be issued with, programme handbooks and identity cards and are enrolled for their programmes. The timetables for the respective scheduled classes are handed over during the induction.

Procedures for the applicants who are returning to education.

We encourage applications from applicants who are returning to education after employment. The applications from these aspirants will be considered against the standard entry criteria of the course that they are interested in; and demonstrating their suitability for the chosen course.

As an ethical institution CRC recognises the importance of considering prior learning and will not force applicants to go through a course of learning when they already have the knowledge, understanding and competence to meet the assessment criteria. The applicants are required to provide requisite evidence as well as a varied profile of achievement to meet the entry requirements, which could be in the form of relevant work experience. The applicants may also be required to demonstrate that they meet the required knowledge, understanding and skills by undertaking an assessment test within the subject area they are intending to study with us.

Fraudulent Information Used to Gain Admission

The discovery of any form of fraudulent information used to gain entry to the College will normally result in the immediate withdrawal of any offer of a place. Fraudulent information in this context includes the use of fraudulent documentation, or any untrue or misleading statement or one which omits pertinent facts (e.g. an unspent criminal conviction) on an application or enrolment form or made at interview or made over the telephone.

Where the applicant has already enrolled as a student of the College, the management may declare the enrolment void, in which case the student must withdraw from the College. There will be no refund of fees. Any credit already passed, or qualification granted, may or may not be retained by the former student, in accordance with the seriousness of the deception and the view of any Professional Body involved.

Equal Opportunity

The college places great value on equal opportunity. Applications from students with disabilities are considered on the same academic grounds as all other students. Applicants are invited to disclose any disability at the point of application. Advice concerning the suitability of the campus, the programme, and any equipment or support is available from the Admissions Office. As information regarding a disability may be of a sensitive nature, students may ask to speak to the Student Welfare Officer in confidence if they prefer.

Validity of Offers

All offers of a place on a course of study at CRC are made in writing by the Admissions Office. No promise or purported offer of a place made other than by the above method will have any validity and will not be accepted by CRC as evidence of an offer.

Unsuccessful Applications

The college reserves the right to reject applications on any grounds, whether academic or non-academic, or if places are no longer available. The Centre has no obligation to give reasons for the rejection of any application and will only give reasons at its sole discretion.

Applicants requiring clarification on any point within our Admissions Policy are asked to contact the Admissions Office.
